Dowdell Dormitory No. 9 Tops In Scholarship

Bowyer Hall Third Floor Leads Women Undergrads

By Robert Alexenberg
A men's residence group, Dowdell No. Nine, with a grade average only tenths short of straight B led all undergraduate organized groups in scholarship for the fall term.

The winning group had an overall 3.9496 according to information released to the Egyptian by the University housing office.

The title for undergraduate women was captured by Bowyer Hall Third floor, with an overall 3.7457.

Among the Greeks, Sigma Kappa walked away with the honors with a composite .6783. The high for the fraternities was the 3.3050 maintained by Alpha Phi Alpha.

This figure is well over the 11 men's average of 3.2240.

As a whole, the fraternities and sororities were a bit below the all school average, which includes married students and part time students. The all school average turned out to be 3.3210.

The Greek women were able to stay above the all women's average by maintaining a composite 3.5066 as compared to the all Women's average of 3.5050.

The fraternity and sorority composite of 3.2472 was well below the Thompson Point overall of 3.3997. It also was below the men and women--on and off campus average--3.3722. The on campus men and women average, the men and women, on and off campus, and the all school averages incorporate part-time and married students' grades into the averages. The Greek grades do not.

The fraternities as a whole compiled a 3.0082 overall, which again is below the all men's average of 3.2240.

The independents fared better than the Greeks. The women independent organized houses or dormitories had nine of the first ten places in the ranking of all women students, the only exception being the number 6 place which went to Sigma Kappa. Furthermore, they also carried 18 of the top 20 rankings for women.

The independent men fared almost as well as the women. They took nine out of the first ten rankings for men and 17 out of the top 20.

Sigma Pi, Kappa Alpha Psi, and Alpha Phi Alpha are the three fraternities which made it into the top 20 listing.

As might be expected, the gradepoint title went to the graduate women with a 4.40000 average. Graduate men are not far behind, though, with a 4.28. This gives graduate students an over-all average of 4.2830 for the Fall term.

Married students again fared well. The Chautauqua Apartments carried away top "prize" with a 4.0358. Southern Hills Apts. was second with 3.8530. In third place, not too far behind Southern Hills, was the Trailer Court married students with a 3.7164.

How does Fall term compare with last Spring term? Last Spring the All Campus average was 3.395, Fall term it was 3.3210, this is a slight decrease. During the Spring the All Men average was 3.3200, Fall term it was 3.2240, which shows another minor drop.

The All Women's average was 3.542 last Spring, last term it was 3.5050, also a drop. Fraternities carried a 3.2301 overall last Spring last term it dropped to 3.0082. With the sororities things were different; they were the only composite group which improved. The girls from Small Group Housing went from a 3.4879 to a 3.5066 Fall term.

61 Winners Repeat

'Showboat', 'West Side Story' Win Theta Xi Variety Show

The old and the new of Broadway took top honors in the 15-act 1962 Theta Xi Variety Show. Sigma Sigma Sigma and Delta Chi combined their talents in a colorful skit based on the old Broadway musical "Showboat" to win the first place group award for the second year in a row.

First place individual honors went to the Jan Gude Dancers who presented a modern dance act based on the recent Broadway musical "West Side Story."

The Service to Southern awards, presented annually at the show, went to Susan Easterday, a senior majoring in elementary education, and Richard Childers, a senior marketing major.

Morris Presents Awards SIU President Delyte W. Morris presented wrist watches to Miss Easterday and Childers Friday evening, opening night of the show, in Shryock Auditorium.

Miss Easterday and Childers were selected from 50 nominees for the annual awards which are based on leadership and campus activity.

Miss Easterday is past-president of Woody Hall and a resident fellow at Steagall Hall. She is a member of the Sphinx Club, Cap and Tassel, Pi Lambda Theta and Kappa Delta Pi honorary organizations. Childers, president of the SIU student body, served as secretary-general for the 1961 model United Nations General Assembly on campus and has been active in the International Relations Club.

The four other finalists were Gail Miller, Judy Barker, Gerald Lawless and Kenneth Orstead.

Hardy Is M.C. Bob Hardy, St. Louis radio personality, was master of ceremonies for the long, colorful and often funny variety show.

Second place in the group act division of the show was won by the Tau Kappa Epsilon skit entitled "Jungle Center", a clever satire on the activities and management of the new University Center. Third place went to the Sigma Pi's for a patriotic tableau entitled "Remember America."

Second Place

Dave McCleary took second place with an uncredited imitation of Southern Comedian Brother Dave Gardner. Honorable mention went to Jay Kennerly, romantic baritone.

Other acts included the Collegians, vocal and instrumental group; Tom Harris Trio, folk singers; Sigma Kappa skit entitled "I B M Machine"; Bill Norvell, blues singer; the Delvans, vocal group from the Edwardsville campus; Louise Gordon, satirist; Ralph Clardy, gospel and blues singer; and the Theta Xi pledge act, a slap-stick comedy skit entitled "The Battle of Yellowstone Park."

Proceeds from the two performances help finance the Theta Xi Fund which is used for the betterment of SIU.

MEMBERS of Delta Chi fraternity admire the large trophy they won in connection with Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority for the skit "Showboat" which took top honors in the 1962 Theta Xi Variety Show. It is the second year in a row that the two Greek Letter organizations have teamed up to win first place in the show.

Faculty Committee Weighs Year-Round Operation Merits

How can the University get more use out of its present facilities? Should classes meet 12 months of the year?

Attempting to find solutions to these questions is a three-man committee of the University Council. The members are soliciting the views of faculty and administration in search of suggestions.

The committeemen are Dean William T. Going, of the Edwardsville campus; William J. McKeefery, dean of academic affairs; and Charles D. Tenney, vice president.

Here are some of the other questions for which the group is seeking answers:

Should there be a full quarter break for the majority of students and faculty?

Can this break be staggered throughout the year?

Should instructors teach nine or 12 months?

How about the status of non-teaching personnel?

After the committee collects the information, they expect to submit it for analysis by a committee selected by President Morris. Then a report will go to the University Council.

Government Is Loaning $275,000 To Students

More than 1,000 students are participating in the National Defense Student Loan program at Southern Illinois University. Arthur A. Swanson, co-ordinator of the student financial assistance, says the students will borrow about $275,000 during the current school year.

WINNERS of the Service to Southern awards Susan Easterday and Richard Childers (center) are congratulated by Bob Hardy, master of ceremonies, at the annual Theta Xi Variety Show. They were selected on the basis of leadership and participation in campus activities.

Southern Players Act For Notables

In National Theater Of Iceland

Feb. 23.--As far as I am concerned I spent the most fantastic day in my entire life today.

At one o'clock we were at the home of the U.S. Ambassador to Iceland--Mr. and Mrs. James K. Penworthy--having hors d'oeuvres with actors of the Icelandic National Theater. We had a marvelous buffet lunch.

Then we wandered around Reykjavik, set up our scenery and rehearsed at the magnificent National Theater, performed to a sell-out audience of almost 700 including the President of Iceland and his wife, to whom we made a special bow.

Afterwards we attended a party, also attended by the Ambassador and his wife, the Prime Minister and his wife, at a very swanky restaurant located in the theater building. As we walked through the main room toward our private dining room, the people applauded Susan Pennington (Billie), who was carrying a bouquet of tulips sent by the theater.

The thing that made the applause so gratifying was that the actor in charge of our arrangements said that he had been the only member of the Theater Society who had wanted us to perform. The others said they wouldn't sell any tickets and they were afraid that feelings were such that the President would refuse an invitation to see it.

Our first plane in the States wasn't pressurized and as a result Joe Rider's ears began to hemorrhage. On a hunch he went to the doctor at McGuire AFB and was grounded for at least 48 hours. We all waved a fond farewell to our leading man whom we hope will be able to fly up in a few day. As it is now, James Kapsa is doing the part.

The conditions here at the base are hysterically funny. The Icelanders have virtually "imprisoned" our "troops." There are approximately 3000 men here. Kdfilavik is 35 miles from Reykjavik with nothing but an old muddy pot-holed road between the two points. Only three per cent of all the military people here are allowed in town at one time and then they have to be out of town or out of any other part of Iceland by 10 o'clock.

Oh! I can't begin to recall the details...there were so many...the beautiful people (the women's skin is absolutely flawless)...the healthy, red-cheeked children, colorful houses against a bleak brown background.

Having the proud distinction of being the world's only human being to have spilled orange juice on the Ambassador to Iceland's mother...having the commander of the base (Partridge) walk up to me and say, "I hear you are for peace," and hearing myself say, "Why, certainly, sir! Aren't you?"...talking to an Icelanders who once lived in Maplewood, Mo.

Sitting next to a pleasant, roly-poly little man to whom I hadn't been introduced and asking him if he were connected with the National Theater. To which the good Ambassador's wife replied that no, no, he wasn't...this was the Prime Minister.

Watching Sarah Moore chat and chat with a man who turned out to be the director of the National Theater and with whom any red-blooded Icelandic aspirant to the stage would give his eye-teeth to converse with...seeing swastikas and hammer-and-sickles on the walls of a grade school.

A new University health clinic and hospital are necessities in the further growth of SIU, says Dr. Richard V. Lee, director of the University Health Service.

Dr Lee expressed his sentiments in regard to a new clinic in a recent interview concerning the status of the University Health Service in relation to Health Services at other universities.

Just how does the University Health Service compare to those at other schools around the country?

Dr. Lee said, "The staff at SIU is a good one, but lacks adequate numbers to carry on the professional duties and the ability to devote thorough attention to each individual patient. The building itself is small," he continued, "forcing the staff to limit their potential capabilities to the confines of a small room or rooms."

ities to the confines of a small room or rooms.

"There are no beds available at the present location," he added, "therefore any student who requires hospitalization must go to the Carbondale Clinic. This creates a problem in itself, for Carbondale's entire surrounding area also has access to the hospital causing a crowded condition on their facilities."

"An effective way of taking care of emotional illness is another facility the Health Service lacks," explained Dr. Lee. "A good psychologist could relieve a portion of the burden placed on the doctors by emotionally affected students," he said.

"All of these inadequacies lead up to only one thing,"

Dr. Lee says, "and that thing is a new Health Service and Hospital."

How would the necessary finances be acquired to pay for such a project? According to Dr. Lee, the $3.15 per quarter in the activity fee used for Health Service purposes would at the present be sufficient to construct the building. The University could obtain a government loan to finance the project, and repay the loan through the $3.15 per quarter, per student plan.

"However," he continued "this would only pay for the construction of the building." The operation of the Clinic would have to be financed through an increase in the activity fee, or possibly a "pay-as-you-call" plan whereas the student would pay a slight fee for each individual call.

Rifle Team Takes Second In Regional Meeting

The AFROTC rifle team placed second in a regional match at Booneville, Missouri on March 3-4-5.

Southern sent a four-man team composed of James C. Clemens and Phil Richards, sophomores, and Charles Green and John Adams, freshmen, according to Robert K. Bumgardner, coach of the ROTC team.

The team was second place in the overall standings and the basic team match, which is comprised of freshmen and sophomores exclusively. Southern was beaten by first place Oklahoma Military Academy.

A total of 68 four-man teams were entered in the competition.

Morey Book Published By University Press

A look at "The State-Supported University" is given in a new book published by the Southern Illinois University Press.

The book is written by Lloyd Morey, for many years comptroller and later president of the University of Illinois.

The volume is based on a series of lectures Morey delivered at Southern in 1957-58 when he served as distinguished visiting professor.

Dr. Charles Tenney, S I U vice president, wrote the foreword to the book. In recommending it, he says that Morey's lectures are "well worth considering for their statesmanlike breadth, tolerance, and wisdom."

Raup visiting at SIU

Dr. R. Bruce Raup, retired professor of education, Columbia University, will visit Southern Illinois University as distinguished visiting professor for the spring term. Dr. Raup, first president and an organizer of the Philosophy of Education Association spent one term last year at Indiana University as visiting professor.

In all areas of competition James C. Clemens, a Southern team member, placed first in points in the kneeling position. His prize was a pair of field glasses and a gold medal.

Scoring five seconds in different areas was Phil Richards of Southern. He received silver medals for his efforts.

Hospitalization Rate

Increased For Staff

An increase in the monthly premium rate of participants in the SIU Group Hospitalization Plan has been announced by the Faculty Welfare Committee.

This action is necessary in order to keep the plan in line with changing conditions, committee spokesman said. Since the plan was written some two and one-half years ago, hospital room charges, service charges, and surgical fees have advanced.

So that the benefits will again match present day costs the daily allowance for hospital room is being raised from $15 per day to $17 per day. The surgical allowance is also being increased.

Beginning March 15 the revised rate structure will be Individual--$7.70 per month Man and Wife--$15.20 per month, and Family--$15.90 per month.

Play Tryouts Slated

Today And Wednesday

Casting auditions for the Southern Players production of Garcia Lorca's "House of Bernarda Alba" will be held today and Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Playhouse.

More Interest In Politics???

In a recent study Prof. Arthur L. Peterson, director of the Arneson Institute of Practical Politics at Ohio Wesleyan University, concluded that the present generation of college students tends toward a "new conservatism" and is not impressed with the extreme liberal or conservative positions.

Peterson mailed questionnaires to the deans of institutions at each college and university in the United States and to 4,500 student leaders, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Deans from 690 institutions answered the query, but more than half (362) reported no politically oriented student organization on their campuses.

Peterson also concluded that political activity increased last year, though possibly just because it was a Presidential election year.

Compiled replies from college deans show that campus "political" groups are oft-times transitory in nature, many of them being strictly election-year phenomena; that students are showing more interest in politics privately even when they don't affiliate with a group; that some students apparently fear getting mixed up with some kind of "front" organization, so join local Democratic or Republican organizations rather than a college group they are unsure of; and that partisan political groups are banned from some campuses.

Well, it's nothing new to learn that we college students tend toward conservatism, but the "new conservatism"—as yet undefined—apparently is a new twist. We certainly do wonder just what this "new conservatism" is.

It is encouraging to learn that generally speaking our generation is not impressed with either the extreme liberal or conservative position. Somebody surely needs to keep alive sane, moderate thinking in the midst of entirely too much fanaticism.

Most heartening is the report that students are showing more interest in politics even though they don't affiliate. It would be wonderful if these things were true—perhaps they are. What strikes us with such force is the apparent lack of political interest here at SIU. While there are clubs of both parties on campus, any real interest—even in the so-called conservative trend—on the part of the overwhelming majority of the student body seems to be nil. Maybe everyone is keeping his opinion to himself. We just hope that all have an opinion.

Thank You For 'Aida'

When any musical group—whether amateur, semi-professional, or academic—ventures into grand opera, it places itself in the position of those who climb mountains or dare outer space: there will always be the critics who will delight in deriding, belittling, or analyzing the effort. The same critics are usually to bathe in reflected glory if the effort is successful.

Let us mince no words about the fact that there have been those armchair critics who prophesized (even hoped) that "Aida" would be a dismal failure.

Perhaps one may be permitted to draw attention to the significance of this performance:

- 1) the fact that more than 4,000 persons attended the Carbondale performance will give the lie to those who believe that people in Southern Illinois are incapable of enjoying and understanding grand opera;
- 2) because these people stayed to the very end and gave their standing ovations to the performers indicates that the audience was not there "just for the spectacle";
- 3) the production indicates the wonderful value of team work which has been inspired and enthused by capable and experienced leadership—the leadership of Miss Lawrence and Mr. Ficocelli. Even in a university, no textbook can replace experience. Only those who have ever attempted to produce or conduct a score such as "Aida" can fully appreciate the measure of triumph due to the producers and participants.

4) the production vindicates the argument for better facilities for such productions. The cast and producers of "Aida" worked under extreme difficulties, and a cramped stage, and with obsolete stage equipment which would have discouraged less courageous souls;

5) the production answers those cynics and skeptics who said "we are not ready for grand opera;" and those who, even now, say "Never again." Doubtless these people lack the faith of Miss Lawrence and Mr. Ficocelli, but we cannot turn back. For many of the audience it was their first taste of grand opera and these people are already saying "Let's do it again!"

For those of us who have been fortunate in seeing metropolitan or European grand opera, it is easy to be analytical and critical. It is just as easy to give credit where it is due and say "Thank you" for a magnificent and successful effort. What comes next? "Faust" or "Parsifal"?

Herbert D. White, Associate Professor, VTI

Gus Bode

Says that since the track team is short of travel funds the boys ought to get into real good shape running around to all the big meets.

Says he didn't think he could ever stand up for three hours, but he did last week-end to watch "Aida."

Says if those little motor scooter trucks don't slow down traffic signals will have to be installed on the sidewalk system.

...We...have every reason to hope. But in the years or crisis and danger awaiting us we need faith in ourselves and in our institutions, appreciation of the blessings that have been lavished upon us, understanding of what the world is entitled to expect of us, readiness to cast aside selfishness and cynicism, and finally dedication to the stupendous tasks that lie before us.

William L. Langer, Coolidge Professor of History at Harvard University

P.K. Smith Counter Replies On Voluntary Class Attendance

Editor:

Mr. Bowman's letter which appeared in the Egyptian (Feb. 27) relating the downfall of Nazi Germany to the educational system of the country at that time is a classic example of mixed cause and effect. A scientific education only promotes a distaste for wars. A war is the result of economic distress and/or insanity. Science contributes nothing to either cause, rather, it is our best weapon against such shortcomings.

Ron Bowman, like many, entertains a "black or white" comparison between science and humanities, attributing such adjectives as "Faustian" to the efforts of science thereby implying the "white" half of his comparison to the liberal arts brand of humanities.

I would be the last person to argue that such humanities such as logic, philosophy, communication with fellow humans, self expression, and a code of moral ethics are not important. My argument is this: of the two arbitrary schools of thought established by most colleges i.e., liberal arts, humanities and pure science, I prefer the latter because within science one can find a highly refined brand of humanities that is a best only approximated in liberal arts. A student deriving his logic and ethics from science has learned a more rigorous lesson. Within this lesson the student of science discovers a feeling of ignorance and insecurity, something bitterly distasteful to the student of liberal arts but welcomed by the scientist as a primary constituent of progress. While the poet of liberal arts moans sounds of illusion to mask the insecurity of reality, the scientist delights in each discovery that brings him further away from security and reality. This is where the difference lies, Mr. Bowman. I would rather sit in an ivory tower of science ready to fall any second than to crawl into a hole of complacency.

"Johnny" is, it can be determined whether or not he has been attending his classes. If the University would discontinue the daily roll call, the parents would have to assume a little more responsibility in knowing where "Johnny" is and what he has been doing.

It seems that the University fears that this would cause the parents to squawk and, after all, the parents are the taxpayers--and the voters (as in bond issues), Clyde R. Axley

We would like to comment on the idea of voluntary class attendance which has been mentioned lately.

Instructors are required to take attendance because in the event that anxious parents contact the University to find out where

Fourth In A Row

Three SIU Teams Win IIAC Titles

Four proved to be a lucky number for Southern's gymnastic, swimming and wrestling teams Saturday as they swept to their fourth consecutive IIAC crowns.

Coach Bill Meade's gymnastic team, paced by Olympian Fred Orlofsky and Bruno Klaus, scored 172 in their meet at Normal.

In the free exercise event, SIU's Orlofsky took first place, while teammate Charles Woerz finished in the third spot.

Hugh Blaney took trampoline honors for the Saluki gymmen, and teammate John Shilder finished right behind him. Klaus won the side horse and horizontal bar events.

Fred Tijerina kept Southern's machine going by coping the parallel bars, with teammates Orlofsky and Klaus in back of him in the number two and three spots.

Tom Geocaris took the still rings event, with SIU's Orlofsky and Charles Ehrlich close behind. Leonard Kalakian finished second to Normal Don Ziert in the tumbling event. Southern Rusty Mitchell was injured and did not compete.

Klaus and Orlofsky climaxed the win by taking the all-around event. Klaus finished in the top spot, as teammate Orlofsky finished in second place.

Southern's tankmen took 12 of 13 events at Eastern Saturday to gain their fourth consecutive IIAC crown. Coach Ralph Casey's squad scored 178 points to cop the meet.

Walt Rodgers finished second in the butterfly event, with teammates Gary Lutker and Ron Deady finishing third and fifth respectively.

Dale Cunningham gave SIU its first victory, by winning the 100 yard freestyle event. Behind Cunningham in second and third place were teammates, Clyde Epperson and John Fischbeck.

Jack Schiltz romped home in the 100 yard breast stroke with Larry Asmussen of Southern in second place. Walt Rodgers came back to win the 200 yard butterfly, with teammates Lutker and Deady right behind him.

John Fischbeck took the 50 yard freestyle, teammates

KEN HOUSTON has been named to the unofficial Mid-Season All-American College Wrestling Team.

Epperson and Bruce Roman were tied for the second spot. Larry Asmussen finished sixth for SIU in this event.

Ron Ballatore took the 200 yard back stroke, with squad mate A.F. Edwards in fourth place. Ray Padovan won his first race in the 220 freestyle. Padovan set a record of 2:08.1. Klem Osika of SIU finished third behind Padovan.

Dale Cunningham continued in winning form as he took the 200 individual medley. Deady was in second place and Osika in fifth in a new record 2:11.6.

Jack Schiltz took his second race by topping the entries in the 200 breaststroke in a record time of 2:18. Larry Asmussen finished in second place.

Padovan came back to set a new record in the 440 freestyle. The North Miami, Fla. swimmer set a record time of 4:43.6 for the 440 freestyle. Teammates Osika and Lutker were close behind.

Ballatore kept the SIU score going by taking the 100 backstroke in a new record time of 58.8. John Robbins took top honors in the diving events.

Southern won the freestyle and 400 medley relay team events.

Coach Jim Wilkinson's matmen registered win number four by taking seven of ten events at Eastern Illinois on Saturday.

Southern lost in the 115 pound class as Izzy Ramos was decisively by Manuel Holcomb of Central Michigan. Southern's other loss came as Karlo Hartin of Northern Illinois outpointed Pat Coniglio, 7-2, in the 147 pound class. The Saluki wrestlers did not enter the 137 pound class.

In other events, SIU's Terry Finn beat Clyde Mitchell of Eastern Illinois in the 123 pound class. Frank Coniglio pinned Cesare Caldarelli of Northern in the 130 pound class. Eddie Lewis of the Salukis topped Ross Phifer of Illinois Normal Univ. in the 157 pound class.

Gudogi-clad coeds kneel on mat with assistant Bob Toupal (above). The girls, who wear the white belt of beginners, have been taking lessons in Karate, sport judo and self defense this quarter. They are (L-R) Joan Blair, Martha Tripp, Lenore Rabjohns, Norma Walton, Charlotte Roberts and Rossa Milner. Alley... Oop! Bob Toupal (right) hits the mat at the hands and hip of Rossa Milner as other coed members of the Karate/judo class look on.

Womanly Art of Self Defense Is Taught in Coed Judo Class

Eight barefoot coeds in oriental costumes spent last Monday evening in a frigid quonset hut learning to fall and be thrown.

The girls, at their request, are learning the fundamentals of Karate, sport judo, and self defense. The club was originated by Charlotte Roberts, Woody Hall, who studied some forms of judo at the University of Hawaii prior to coming here.

"The initial meeting produced ten interested women, and we hope to interest about 20 more next term," Miss Roberts explained.

The members, under the direction of Physical Education Assistant Professor Cecil Franklin, are achingly learning to absorb shock in falls and to throw. In speaking of the class, one hopeful judo expert said: "It's great, but we were some pretty stiff, sore girls after that first night!"

Franklin feels that there is much value in the instructions because they also include Japanese culture, language, costume and etiquette, along with the opening and closing ceremonial.

The girls are white belts now--the system of designating rank and training is by the color of the belt, a vital part of the judo costume, or gudogi. A white belt marks a beginner, followed by brown, then black.

According to Franklin: "The girls are enthusiastic and learn the skills rapidly, but its the first time I've come home from class with lipstick on my gudogi; and that takes some explaining!"

Sigma Pi Drops Bailey

Sigma Pi's were crowned All-School intra-murals basketball champs by downing the Bailey Tigers 54-45 in the championship, contest last week.

Dave Snyder paced the winning fraternity five with 22 points. Teammate Jim Woods dropped in 11 points to help the winning cause. Jim Long led the Bailey squad with 19 markers.

The Sigma Pi took an early lead in the contest and were never headed. Bailey Hall had previously won the Men's Resident Halls league.

University To Require Salesmen To Register

Beginning this week, green "no soliciting" stickers will be placed on all university buildings to remind both students and salesmen that no selling by outside interests is sanctioned on the campus.

At the same time, the office of student affairs will begin issuing permits to salesmen wishing to sell items to students at the students' residences.

The Student Affairs office said that if any student is approached by a salesman, he should ask to see the university-issued permit.
